The Dishman, Hughes, Morris and Upchurch Families

BARBARA MORRIS

The Hughes family is of Irish ancestry.

The Irish Blessing
May the lord rise to meet you. May the wind be always at your back. May the sun shine warm upon your face, and until we meet again, may God hold you in the palm of his hand.

Hughes are a people of great pride and dignity of character with high moral principles and generosity.

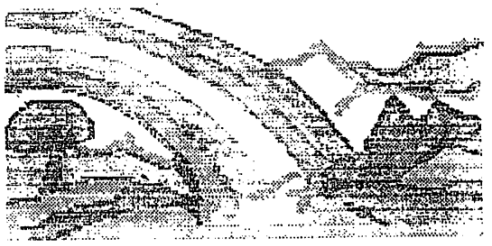

The motive that sent our ancestors to this county from their Irish home was a desire for religious freedom.

The Irish Blessing
May the road rise to meet you. May the wind be always at your back. May the sun shine warm upon your face, the rain fall soft upon your fields, and until we meet again, may God hold you in the palm of his hand.

Joseph was born in 1812 and died November 8, 1903. His wife Millie Williams who was born in 1818. They were buried in the Dishman Cemetery near Slickford, Kentucky. Chief

Chief Doublehead, of the Cherokee tribe, was also buried there. One wonders if he could be the father of Kizzie.

Moses was born in 1817 and married Millie Upchurch, the daughter of Moses and Catherine Barker Upchurch. They lived on a farm on Otter Creek, Kentucky.

Burrell Trentmon was born October 27, 1820 and died May 23, 1901 and married Nancy Upchurch, the daughter of John and Sarah Bertram Upchurch. John Upchurch and Lydia Upchurch Dishman were brother and sister. Burrell and Nancy also lived on Otter Creek. Burrell and Nancy were Arrisa Jane Dishman Morris's grandparents.

Sinah was born in 1815 and married Riley Brown, the son of Abraham and Vina Brown.

Information has been handed down through the families about large square dances these relatives would have in their homes.

Jefferson Dishman died in 1847 and his wife, Lydia died in 1848.
